

Those who have a copy of vol. 2 of A Treatise of Human Nature (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 2007) may wish to incorporate the additions and corrections that have been made in vol. 2 of the paperback published in January 2011. These changes are shown below in two lists. The first list corrects errors in dates and other numbers, in names, book titles, and text locations. The second corrects minor errors of form. Instructions for making changes are in bold. For ease of use, line numbers are given after page numbers (for example, 200.10 indicates page 200, line 10) and are counted, excluding headings, from the top of the page unless followed by fb, which means they are counted from the bottom of the page, again excluding headings and also footnote lines. When corrections or additions occur within Editors' Annotations, the line numbers in brackets indicate the relevant line(s) within any given annotation (for example, 728 in 48.10-12 {line 4} means on p. 728 look at the fourth line of the annotation for 48.10-12). Notes are identified by n; the location of the correction in the note is provided by a line number (for example, 506 n190.20 means the 20th line of note 190 on p. 506).

At this point in the Appendix, Hume asks readers to correct two ‘errors of the press’ (p. 682.26-8). These corrections are shown at Editing the Text, Register B, entries 127.17 (p. 651) and 171.34 (p. 652). Following his remarks about these errors, Hume asks readers to insert in the text of the Treatise four more passages, that is, four passages in addition to the earlier five (see ann. 398.37) he had already written for insertion. In the order of their original appearance, the four passages are found at n.5 (pp. 18-19), 1.2.4.22, 1.2.4.31, and n.12 (pp. 46-7). These are marked in the text, as are the earlier five passages, at their beginning and ending with a superscript App. See also ann. 396.title (p. 959), the first paragraph on p. 674, and Ed. App.2 where the Appendix can be read in the order it first appeared (pp. 674-84).
