President's Message

Dear Investor:

The past 12 months have been difficult ones for investors around the world, particularly in Canada. Canadian stocks are generally lower than they were a year ago and remarkably high interest rates in the past six months have pushed bond prices down. The bond market provided excellent gains in the last half of 1993, but has been volatile since the beginning of this year.

Though the past year was a period when analysts and economists alternatively touted recoveries of world economies and major corrections of overheated stock markets, there were more than a few bright spots. The past year was a useful and clearly an important reminder to diversify your portfolio outside of Canada. Unit-holders of the Fidelity International Portfolio Fund, the Fidelity Far East Fund, the Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund and the Fidelity European Growth Fund were rewarded with strong returns.

The past 12 months were also very important times for many other investors. Thousands of new people discovered mutual funds as long term investment vehicles. On behalf of Fidelity Investments Canada, I am pleased to welcome the thousands of new investors that have joined our family of funds. You have helped Fidelity grow into one of the largest mutual fund companies in Canada. New investors and veteran market players should both be pleased with the new format of our annual reports.

I think you'll find this year's editions of our annual reports are easier to read, more informative and more educational than those of previous years. Investment education has been and always will be an important component of selling mutual funds for Fidelity Investments Canada. Our reputation for providing information is among the highest among investment advisors. Our quarterly reports have proven to be a very popular reference for investment executives and unitholders alike. We hope you'll find this annual report useful for evaluating your investments.

In this annual report, you will find extended conversations with your fund managers about the fund's performance over the past year and their strategy for the coming 12 months. You will also find an extended glossary as a useful reference to help you understand this report and daily economic reporting found in your newspaper. We have also included a section on evaluating your risk profile while planning your investment strategy.

When reading this report and reviewing your investments, take time to consider your investment goals and risk profile. Particularly during the past six months, investors might be shy to keep their money invested in mutual funds. But remember that mutual funds are a long term investment in economies at different stages of growth.

During an investment horizon of several years, the peaks and troughs of a market are smoothed to provide a solid investment return. Whether you're a new investor or a veteran of mutual fund investing, a conservative or aggressive investor, the past six months may have conspired against you. By investing in a portfolio of diversified assets and perhaps in different regions of the world, you are lessening your exposure to market declines. Never before has it been so important to diversify your portfolio's holdings. Having your eggs in one basket, as the past year might have demonstrated, is not necessarily the best strategy to protect capital. The educated hope is that those investments performing in regions with economic growth will offset losses from investments in regions of economic decline. The strength of the Fidelity International Portfolio Fund reflects this.

If this past year has proved anything, it has demonstrated that people should have qualified and trusted advice when planning their investment portfolio. Fidelity Investments Canada strongly recommends talking to your investment advisor about your portfolio, your investment goals and risk profile. Together, you can come up with the best investment strategy for your needs.

Best Regards,

John H. Simpson, CFA
President

Market Recap

Canada

Political uncertainties have played a significant role in Canadian financial markets over the past year. To boost a falling dollar, the Bank of Canada has several times hiked interest rates. Since inflationary growth is falling, this has resulted in relatively high real lending rates. This could hurt economic growth over the next 12 months since businesses and consumers are less inclined to borrow more money to spend on expansion, cars, houses and other big ticket items. Political concerns combined with high government deficits have caused jitters among some investors, particularly foreigners, holding Canadian bonds. The possibility of Quebec separating from Canada has many investors, academics and politicians speculating on how the federal debt will be paid.

Canadian equity markets have produced some bright spots, but many investors feel that the markets are not reflecting full value for fundamentally strong companies. This could be due to political concerns or simply a reflection of a general downturn in world equities. The Toronto Stock Exchange rose 4.08% over the past year, underperforming many other major indices. The decline in global equities' markets continued to hurt Canadian stock prices in the first half of 1994 as the TSE returned -5.68%. In Canada, many companies survived the recession by rationalizing operations, restructuring production and reorganizing debt at low interest rates. These companies, having undergone a fundamental overhaul, have become relatively attractively priced in the declining equity market. Despite political uncertainties, we expect more growth in the Canadian equities market in the next year.

Canadian resource and energy companies are poised to benefit most from the economic recovery, reflecting higher export demand and rising commodity prices. The export-oriented resource sector is benefiting particularly from a low Canadian dollar.

Europe

For the past year, the Financial Times World Europe Index rose 24.17%. After such a run, however, the market corrected as volatile world bond markets set a negative tone for stocks. To illustrate the impact of the correction, the index gained only 0.91% in the first six months of 1994. Fundamentally, the picture is more encouraging. Companies have made significant changes to improve their balance sheets and become more efficient producers. Corporate earnings have shown fundamental improvement across many different sectors. This brighter earnings picture is expected to lead the next rally in European equities in coming months.

United States

The significant development in U.S. equity markets is their reluctance to move higher. While broad indices showed some slight improvement over the past year, it has mainly been on the backs of large companies rather than ones with smaller capitalization. The Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up only 9.25% for the past year, lower than most major markets. This type of market, be it a corrective phase or a legitimate bear market, has produced some opportunities to buy strong companies at good prices. An improving economy, low inflation and higher earnings as a result of corporate cost-cutting measures makes the outlook for U.S. investments more bullish for the next year. In addition, many money managers have been negative on the U.S. market, a strong contrarian indicator in favor of investment growth.

Japan

Many market watchers believed Japan emerged from recession in mid-June, 1994, shortly before the blue chip Nikkei 225 Stock Average hit its highest levels in two-years. The Nikkei 225 gave the highest returns of major markets for the six months ending June 30, jumping 39.92%. The market also gave strong returns, 22.78%, for the year though investors were given a roller coaster ride. The Nikkei and the broader Topix indices crashed in late November and remained volatile until February, 1994. Since then, despite political instability and a strengthening yen, the Japanese equity market has performed strongly. Japanese exporters have turned earnings upward by restructuring operations and moving some production off-shore to countries with lower labor costs, such as Malaysia. Domestic producers are meeting increased demand from consumers, who have benefited from an income tax break. Even the resignation of Prime Minister Tsutomu Hata and the election of socialist Tomiichi Murayama in late June failed to break the market's momentum. As the U.S. dollar continued to lose ground to the yen in late June and early July, 1994, a trade agreement between the two countries appeared within reach. Our expectations are that Japanese economic renewal will keep markets moving upward for the rest of 1994.

Far East

The region suffered severe declines in the first six months of 1994. The Hang Seng Stock Index in Hong Kong fell more than 20% from its peak in January, 1994, while other markets in the region had similar declines. All regional markets appeared to ride waves of speculation on the way to their highs, pushing stocks to levels higher than what many long term investors felt warranted. The correction has produced many attractively priced stocks, especially in Hong Kong where stocks are trading between 11- and 12-times 1994 earnings levels. The political situation in Hong Kong is beginning to encourage business there as the ruling British appear to be reaching significant agreements with the Chinese government relating to commerce, politics and defense. The Chinese government assumes control of Hong Kong on July 1, 1997. The long term outlook for Far Eastern markets continues to be positive. In mid-summer, 1994, the market offered good value as prospects for corporate earnings and economic growth looked favorable.

Emerging Markets

As all markets, emerging markets underwent a major correction in early 1994. Despite the correction, emerging markets demonstrated enormous strength during the period. The MSCI Emerging Markets Global index — which measures all emerging markets including those in the Far East — was up 46.92% for the past 12 months, despite losing almost 4% in the first six months of 1994. Similarly the MSCI EMF Latin America Index gained 45.1% for the past 12 months, but lost a fraction of a percentage point in the first half of 1994. These returns reflect Latin American market strength, particularly in Mexico, Argentina and Brazil, where demand for infrastructure and consumer goods is growing. Political concerns in the run-up to elections in Brazil and Mexico will dominate regional markets for the rest of 1994.

Bonds

Global bond markets seem to have set the tone for world financial markets. A downturn in bond markets in the first quarter ended a strong and profitable rally which began in early 1993. The U.S. bond market and all other major markets severely corrected when the U.S. Federal Reserve tightened the Fed funds rate — the rate at which U.S. banks may borrow money from another bank's reserves — in early February. Since then, even a lowering of the key German lending rate set by the German Bundesbank has been unable to spark European or other bond markets. Concern for portfolio positions and the market price of bonds has dominated any positive factors now materializing in the marketplace. Low inflation and slow economic growth — usually associated with bond rallies — in almost all developed economies has failed to kickstart the market. In Canada, inflation growth has been flat and, at times, negative. This has produced one of the highest real returns — interest rate of the bond minus inflation rate — available in global bond markets. We believe the current decline is overdone, producing undervalued securities and some buying opportunities. We expect markets to settle and rally in late 1994.

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

Bob Beckwitt
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity Asset Manager
Fund

Q. How did the Fund do?

A. The Fund returned 9.26% while the benchmark index, the Fidelity Asset Allocation Composite Index, returned only 0.74%.

Q. The markets during the past year have had two very different characteristics — very bullish for the last half of 1993 and turbulent for the first half of 1994. How did your strategy change to cope with the market developments?

A. Significantly, the Fund's cash position was increased as the markets became more volatile in 1994. The Fund had only 8% cash at the end of September, 1993, but as of June 30, 1994, it had gone up to about 31% cash.

Q. Why?

A. The simple answer is none of the markets appeared attractive. Virtually all of the asset classes that had performed well for the Fund in 1993 gave up a significant portion of their gains in 1994. On the fixed income side, rising global interest rates caused virtually all fixed income positions to perform poorly. In Europe, the Fund's hedged positions in Danish and French bonds fell as certain major institutional investors reduced their leveraged exposure to these markets. The Fund's weakness was magnified since the hedged positions couldn't capitalize on appreciation of local currencies. In Mexico, a political assassination and civil unrest in Chiapas caused rates to go higher and the peso to weaken. Unfortunately, the effects of this political instability were also felt in Argentine bond holdings which had been attractive. Fortunately, the Fund was also able to gain from this rising interest rate environment. Short-term instruments provided the Fund with some stability as their yields improved.

Q. Were there any other bright spots?

A. Technology stocks like Compaq Computer Corp. have performed well for the Fund as did financial companies like Citicorp. Remember too, that the weakness in stocks and bonds has resulted in attractive valuations of various asset classes. Shares of U.S. companies might have fallen, but their earnings had improved, especially companies with small market capitalization. One of the more interesting developments in the U.S. equity market was that corporate insiders, the people who run the companies, had begun buying more of their stock while investment advisors had become negative on the U.S. market. Despite threats of higher interest rates in the U.S., I think these factors show that the downside risk of the U.S. market is limited.

Q. And bonds?

A. The same thing has happened. Bonds around the world have moved from being "over-owned" to being "over-sold", producing some high real yields, when you subtract the effect of inflation. Canadian bonds are among the most compelling securities, offering real yields of about 9% for ten-year bonds.

Q. How about other foreign investments?

A. Japanese equities have improved dramatically over the past year and the Fund has benefited from that. We've moved about 4% of the Fund into Japanese holdings.

Q. What's your strategy for the next six months?

A. I think I'll start to think carefully about adding to both stock and bond holdings in the next few months. I think investors are beginning to regain their confidence.

Fund Facts

Goal: The Fund seeks high total return with lower long-term volatility by investing in a global mix of securities.

Start date: January 14, 1993

Size: as at June 30, 1994, US$ 222 million

Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

Rob Citrone
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity Emerging Markets
Bond Fund

Q. Since this is a new fund for Canadian investors, can you tell us about its objectives?

A. The Fund's goals are to provide investors with long-term capital growth while achieving high income by investing in emerging economies' fixed-income instruments. I take a global view of all emerging markets, though I've initially concentrated on Latin America because of the favorable returns there. But I will invest in Eastern Europe and the Far East.

Q. What's the best debt market for emerging markets right now?

A. I think the best risk return is in Argentina. In the short term the upside in Brazil is very strong. And I think Mexico also has a very good risk return from here. I like Ecuador very much. There will be bonds available there in October. That's when the loans' restructuring will take place. I've been encouraged by what's happening in Poland and the Philippines. So, we'll start looking at more local current opportunities in some of the Asian markets and take advantage of them soon.

Q. Is there a reason why you haven't invested much in Asia?

A. Well, on a relative scale, I think the return potential in Latin America is much larger. The other thing is that markets in Asia have been fairly closed to foreign investors. They're just gradually beginning to open up so it will make more sense once we get better liquidity in these markets.

Q. How do the investments in the Fund perform when it comes to US interest rate moves and movements in the US dollar?

A. If the US bond market is having trouble, it tends to have an impact on the emerging markets because emerging markets, in a lot of cases, are dollar-based economies. That has a significant impact on the economy. Everything that happens to the US market gets magnified in many emerging markets.

Q. Let's talk about the Fund's investments. You've recently reduced your cash positions significantly to about 16% on June 30, 1994. When did you decide the market was right to become more fully invested?

A. At the end of April.

Q. Why?

A. I think my decision was based on a couple of things. One, there was a bit more stability in the global bond markets around the world. And secondly, there were just very cheap valuations on the emerging markets side. So I felt like things were overdone.

Q. This year holds some significant political events in Latin America, where you have invested most of the Fund. How do these events influence the way you invest the Fund?

A. There have always been questions related to politics there. But I think people will be less surprised and their concerns will be reduced significantly. The risk premium that some of these countries have to pay as a result of fragmented political systems in the past will decline over time as they get more established, democratic institutions in place. I think that's important.

Q. How are you approaching the Brazilian election?

A. I'm feeling more positive about the likelihood of stability in the economy for a long period of time. The last couple of polls have shown (pro-business candidate) Cardoso coming equal with (socialist candidate) Lula. Cardoso is gaining significantly in the polls, giving the market a positive momentum right now. I have a very liquid position in Brazil and if things are heading the other direction I will reduce the position pretty quickly. The Fund is invested in liquid instruments that are traded quite frequently everyday.

Q. What should investors be watching for in the next six to 12 months in emerging markets?

A. I think they have to focus on the elections in Latin America — Mexico, Brazil and Argentina early next year. I think they've got to watch the progress in Russia. I think they want to continue to see the Brady plans get implemented and bonds to come out of these programs. We're looking for Brady programs out of Ecuador, Bulgaria, Poland. They've already been agreed to and the bonds should be in the market soon. And then hopefully Panama and Peru will follow with deals pretty quickly thereafter.

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

Sally Walden
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity European Growth
Fund

Q. How did the Fund do?

A. The Fund returned 22.68% for the year ending June 30, 1994. That was slightly lower than the benchmark Financial Times-All-share World Europe Index which returned 24.17% for the period. I think it's worth noting that the Fund beat the index during the first six months of 1994, returning 2.51%. The index returned only 0.91% in that time.

Q. The past six months were almost the opposite of the last half of 1993 when the markets rallied. What is your strategy for a 12-month period where the market appears to have two very different personalities?

A. I do think that you don't expect massively strong markets to last forever. Some setback in the market was to be expected after the amazing strengths we had from the fall of 1992 until the end of 1993. But the fact that European markets were among the worst hit did surprise me. I would have expected them to be weak, but not underperforming the rest of the world.

Q. Why do you think they were so weak?

A. I think it had to do with the tidal wave of initial public offerings (IPOs) and privatizations in the European market. The total value of IPOs and privatizations in 1992 was US$2.0 billion, and in 1993, US$8.0 billion. But unbelievably, in the first half of 1994, it's already at US$13.7 billion. We aren't talking about a marginal change. I think that the real reason why the European markets were badly hit was because of that enormous boost in supply. This issue was superimposed on already difficult global markets and an unfavorable bond market.

Q. What was your strategy during the correction in European markets?

A. I didn't feel worried about it. I didn't think these markets were going to fall another 30%. No, it seemed to me the rational way of looking at it was as a buying opportunity. I did feel pretty confident on the direction of the markets, it was just a question of what was going to turn them. Recently the European markets have really picked up.

Q. So do you think they've hit bottom?

A. My guess would be that they have. They look as if they are behaving in a much more rational way, rather than a lemming-like feeling of running from destruction.

Q. When did you begin to see the declines as buying opportunities?

A. I suppose I felt that some sort of correction made sense. What has been good is the new issue activity dried up after mid-June. You just needed some stability on that side. And now, corporate profit numbers coming out are really good, and people are starting to take notice.

Q. What is your attitude now?

A. I get the impression that people are taking a bit more interest in the strong corporate earnings, which I think is more healthy and more rational. I'm pretty comfortable about the market. I think valuations in Europe look quite reasonable in a lot of markets.

Q. What would you say to an investor who saw the big run-up in the last six months of 1993, and bought your fund at the beginning of 1994, just before the correction?

A. Market timing is one of the hardest things to do. But I would say to them not to be discouraged. The worst thing you could do is throw in the towel at the very minute when things are about to turn. We believe there is a good phase ahead again in European markets within the next year.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. I think there's a momentum developing behind strong corporate earnings. I think what is happening in Europe is that share prices have collapsed in many markets. Throughout that period, earnings have risen pretty significantly. I think this gives us opportunities to seriously consider investing more money into Europe. The time to buy markets is not after they have risen 20%, but after they have been through a tough time, provided you think the medium term case for the market is intact. I think that's true for Europe.

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

K. C. Lee
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity Far East
Fund

Q. How did the Fund do?

A. The Fund returned 24.67% for the year ending June 30, 1994, while the MSCI Pacific Index excluding Japan returned 38.79%. For the six months ending June 30, the Fund returned -16.37% while the index returned -11.91%.

Q. What factors contributed to the Fund's performance in the past year?

A. I was very cautious about the markets in the fourth quarter of 1993, so the portfolio was very defensively structured. The markets ran up very strongly in that quarter so I was cautious too early. The market didn't correct itself until a few months later, so clearly being cautious too early hurt the performance.

Q. How do you view your strategy now?

A. I think I was right to be very cautious in markets like Malaysia and Thailand. But I expected Hong Kong to do relatively well or be relatively resilient. That hasn't happened. I manage money with a long-term perspective and I structure my portfolios assuming that markets behave normally. And markets have not been behaving normally in the last nine months. It appears as if my portfolio was not well-structured for this period of abnormal behavior, especially in the fourth quarter of 1993.

Q. What has made this market behave abnormally?

A. Investors who have invested in the market to make quick returns by speculating on the market. Their decisions are made on the basis of the market's momentum, not fundamental analysis.

Q. Do you try to change your strategy at all to cope with this kind of market?

A. No. I expect that markets will eventually return to normality. Before we reach normality there will be some very painful adjustments, but I don't think I need to change my strategy.

Q. How would you define your asset allocation strategy?

A. I have a view on the outlook for the markets based mostly on the risk I perceive for various markets. On that basis, I feel there is the least risk in Hong Kong.

Q. What is your asset allocation now and will that change?

A. Well, I'm still going to have a heavy weighting in Hong Kong on the basis that I feel it will be the best performer in the coming months. More than 60 percent of the Fund's holdings are in the Hong Kong market. The most positive thing about Hong Kong is that a lot of people are bearish. It is a contrarian view. I continue to feel very negative on markets like Thailand and Malaysia. The Fund's weighting in Malaysia and Thailand have continued to fall.

Q. How do short-term political developments in Hong Kong, China and Korea influence your investment strategy?

A. I don't take those factors into consideration. Performance of the various markets in the last 10 or 20 years shows that political factors tend to have a short-term impact on the markets, but no long-term impacts on economic policies. Therefore, no long-term impact on the stock market. Remember, I take a long term view in investing.

Q. Where are you investing new money?

A. A little bit is going to cash, and a small amount to both Singapore and Hong Kong.

Q. What will change your opinion on secondary markets such as Malaysia?

A. Well, I don't know. It's still overvalued with a lot of speculative investors in the market. If the Malaysian market is now trading at 1000, I think the fair value for the market is probably about 850.

Fund Facts

Goal: The Fund is a long-term capital growth portfolio and may invest in all Southeast Asian countries, except Japan.

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

Dick Habermann
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity International
Portfolio Fund

Q. How did the Fund do?

A. The Fund returned 19.68% for the year ending June 30, 1994, beating its benchmark, the Financial Times-Allshare World Index, which returned 18.95% for the same period.

Q. Which country or region led the Fund's performance?

A. Clearly, Japan has been the biggest contributor. Not only has the stock selection been good, but unitholders have benefited from the currency exchange. European investments have also done well. They account for about 28% of the holdings. The European economies are improving, but I think most investors have underestimated the degree of improvement there. The fundamental improvement in the European economies actually occurred a good six months before we started to see it show up in Japan. Those are the two significant shifts. Another factor which contributed to performance was the Fund's significant underweighting in US investments.

Q. What do you like about Europe?

A. Investors in Europe have yet to realize the full value of what has gone on there as far as fundamental change and restructuring of companies. There is still more value to be had there, I think that is for sure. We're going through this transition in Europe from an interest rate-driven market to an earnings-driven market and there is usually a bump along the way. If someone were to ask which investments in the Fund have disappointed me, I'd have to say the ones in France and some of the smaller markets. Sweden and Spain haven't done as well as I had hoped.

Q. Do you expect the Fund to continue underweighting U.S. stocks relative to the benchmark?

A. Yes. Stocks are still a little overvalued in the US and you have the additional factor of the declining US dollar against major currencies.

Q. What were the other major changes in the asset allocation?

A. The Fund had built up some cash to about 10% of its holdings. As global markets weakened, more of the Fund was put to work. I've recently been building positions in Latin America. As of June 30, 1994 about 4% of the holdings have been added to Latin American markets. It's just a great buying opportunity.

Q. Latin American markets rallied strongly in the last half of 1993, but they went through a major correction in early 1994. At what point did you decide to increase the Fund's holdings in the region?

A. It was during the correction. I added to Brazil and more into Mexico when the market fell there.

Q. Do you expect the Latin American portion of the Fund to move higher in the next six to 12 months?

A. Yes. I think there is every reason to think emerging markets, including Southeast Asia, should be somewhere between 5% and 10% of the Fund.

Q. What other changes to the Fund's asset allocation do you expect to make in the next six to 12 months?

A. I think I'll keep adding to Japan. The stock selection has been pretty good there. Europe has performed well, but I think I'll look at further diversifying the holdings into other areas of the world.

Fund Facts

Goal: The Fund seeks long-term capital growth by investing in equities from around the world.

Start date: November 30, 1987

Size: as at June 30, 1994, $426 million

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

Yoko Tilley
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity Japanese Growth
Fund

Q. How did the Fund do?

A. The Fund was launched in July, 1993, in the midst of a correction in the Tokyo stock market. Since the market turned around in November, the Fund has performed very well, beating the market.

Q. What have you done to beat the market?

A. I have really invested in the Japanese economic recovery. The Tokyo market hit its lowest point of 1994 on January 4. Since then, it has gotten stronger, with minor declines from time to time. As the economic recovery looked like it was getting stronger, I started to invest more in economically sensitive stocks, buying a lot of electrical companies, while cutting back on defensive stocks such as pharmaceuticals and food companies. As I have become more confident about the economy I have reduced the Fund's cash position to a moderate level, helping the overall performance. In addition, the selection of the stocks in the portfolio has been good and made a positive contribution to the performance.

Q. How has your strategy on the Japanese market changed during the past year?

A. I have become more confident in the Japanese economic recovery. Remember that in the second half of 1993 we had a lot of scandals and political uncertainty which delayed the Japanese economic recovery, so I was worried about the short-term effects of this on the Japanese economy overall. I had kept a fairly high cash position in the Fund even though I was constantly investing as I came across good companies with good values.

Q. Did you keep the Fund's cash position relatively high because you were trying to stay liquid in the face of political concerns?

A. Politics was one reason, but company earnings were going downward.

Q. What kind of companies did you invest in this past year?

A. Mostly electronics companies because Japanese companies have a very strong market position worldwide in that area. Their worldwide competitiveness has made them very advanced in implementing rationalization programs in response to a strong yen. They have been very aggressive in cutting costs and shifting their production overseas.

Q. Can you be more specific about how the companies owned by the Fund reacted to the rising yen?

A. First they cut costs by all means. Some companies implemented a voluntary retirement program, thereby reducing personnel expenses. Others shifted some employees to subsidiaries. They reduced material costs by sourcing various products in the cheapest possible way. Some resources were imported because they prove to be much cheaper. They cut back unprofitable products if they couldn't justify the economies of scale for particular products. A lot of manufacturing companies shifted production bases overseas.

Q. What's your strategy for the coming year?

A. I think I will still look for companies which continue to rationalize their businesses and are likely to produce better profits. Also, other investment opportunities will come up as the Japanese government tries to reduce regulations for different industrial and trading sectors.

Q. Will you be able to find the same values you did in the coming year as you did last year?

A. Essentially, things are not as cheap. Even though some companies' shares have gone up 20%, some are likely to increase their profits by 40%. The more and more you study, I think there will be some opportunities. We will be rewarded by investing selectively this year.

Q. What is your time horizon for investing?

A. I constantly follow up companies, so when I buy companies, there are reasons why I buy these stocks. If something is going wrong with the company I will sell. However, most stocks I intend to hold for the long term.

Fund Talk: The Manager's Overview

Patti Satterthwaite
Portfolio Manager of
Fidelity Latin American
Growth Fund

Q. This market seems to have had two kinds of personalities in the past year. One very bullish, one very bearish. What kind of market do you expect for the next six to 12 months?

A. Last year was pretty much a stockpickers market which is great for a Fidelity Fund. This year, the best place to be was in the big index stocks. So when it starts to rally, I think you'll see a switch back into stockpicking. The Fund is pretty well positioned with that, especially since I was able to buy the best stocks as they fell earlier this year.

Q. How did the Fund do?

A. Relatively well. The Fund was launched about three weeks before the market peaked in January, 1994. What was good about that was the Fund had more cash than its competitors going into the downturn. In a sense this was a big buying opportunity over the last five months, so it was good that the Fund had a lot of cash — about 30% of the Fund's assets in April — as that was happening. I didn't start really spending that cash until May after there had been at least two solid months of corrections.

Q. Because it's a new fund for Canadian investors in a relatively unknown region, what should investors think about when they invest in the Fund?

A. First of all, the reason you want to buy this type of fund is that it's got long-term growth potential. Latin American markets should have higher GDP growth than developed markets, including Canada. And as a result it should have higher earnings growth which should drive positive returns in the stock market.

Q. What type of time horizon should people have in mind?

A. Five years.

Q. Where do you expect strong economic growth for the next six to 12 months?

A. This year, Argentine economic growth should be roughly 5%, Brazilian growth in the vicinity of 4%, Peruvian growth almost 10%. The two slower economies are Venezuela, which could have negative growth this year, and Mexico, which should grow between 1% and 2%, but accelerate later in 1994.

Q. Most of the Fund's holdings are in Mexico. Why?

A. Despite the slow down in economic growth in Mexico, exports have been strong this year because of demand from a recovering US economy. In addition, companies on the Bolsa have been gaining market share relative to the non-listed companies. Earnings growth has been higher than one would have expected given the GDP growth. First quarter operating growth for private companies was strong despite the fact that the economy only grew slightly.

Fund Facts

Notes to Financial Statements

For the periods ended June 30, 1994 and 1993

1. Formation of The Fidelity Funds

The following "Fidelity Funds" are open-end mutual fund trusts formed under the laws of Ontario by declaration of trust on the dates as noted below, as amended:

|                                       |                    |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------|
| Fidelity Asset Manager Fund           | January 14, 1993   |
| Fidelity Emerging Markets Bond Fund   | February 1, 1994   |
| Fidelity European Growth Fund         | May 29, 1992       |
| Fidelity Far East Fund                | September 17, 1991 |
| Fidelity International Portfolio Fund | November 30, 1987  |
| Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund         | July 5, 1993       |
| Fidelity Latin American Growth        | January 14, 1994   |

The information provided in these financial statements and notes thereto is for the years ended or as at June 30 except for the Funds established during a year, in which case the information provided relates to the period from inception to June 30 in the year the Fund was formed.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and include the following significant accounting policies:

a) Security Valuation

Stocks, bonds and debentures are valued at the last reported sale price, or if no sale price was reported, at the last quoted bid price in the principal market in which such securities are normally traded. Securities traded on any over-the-counter market are valued in the same manner.

Short term securities are valued at amortized cost which approximates market value.

All other securities are valued at fair value as determined by the Fund Manager.

b) Forward Foreign Currency and Futures Contracts

The Funds enter into forward foreign currency contracts for foreign currency hedging purposes only. The contractual amounts of these forward contracts are disclosed in the Statement of Investment Portfolio under the heading Principal amount. The value of these forward contracts is the gain or loss that would be realized if, on Valuation Day, the position were closed out and for financial statement purposes is recorded as an unrealized gain or loss. When the contracts are closed or expire, gains or losses are recognized and are included in realized gains/losses on investments. Purchases and sales of forward contracts having the same settlement date and broker are offset and presented net in the Commitments note to the financial statements.

The Canadian dollar value of forward foreign currency contracts, US dollar value for Fidelity Asset Manager Fund, is determined using forward currency exchange rates supplied by a quotation service. Losses may arise due to changes in the value of the foreign currency or if the counterparty does not perform under the contract.

The Funds may also invest in futures contracts. The face value or contractual amounts of these futures contracts are disclosed in the Statement of Investment Portfolio under the heading Principal amount. Futures contracts are valued at the settlement price established each day by the board of trade or exchange on which they are traded. The value of these futures is the gain or loss that would be recognized upon closure of the contract and for financial statement purposes is recorded as an unrealized gain or loss.

c) Investment Security Transactions

Investment security transactions are accounted for on the date the securities are purchased or sold. Gains and losses on securities sold are determined on the basis of average cost.

d) Income Recognition

Income from investments is recognized on the accrual basis. Interest income is accrued as earned and dividend income is recognized on the ex-dividend date.

e) Foreign Currency Translation

Investment securities and other assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency are translated into Canadian dollars, US dollars for Fidelity Asset Manager Fund, at the year end exchange rate. Purchases and sales of securities, income and expenses are translated into Canadian dollars, US dollars for Fidelity Asset Manager Fund, at the exchange rate on the date of the respective transaction.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies – continued

f) Indexed Securities

The Funds may also invest in indexed securities whose value is linked either directly or inversely to changes in foreign currencies, interest rates, commodities, indices or other reference instruments. Indexed securities may be more volatile than the reference instrument itself, but any loss is limited to the amount of the original investment.

3. Unitholders' Equity

The capital of the Funds is divided into an unlimited number of units of equal value. The Funds are permitted to issue fractional units. Each unit is entitled to one vote and to participate in distributions made to the unitholders. Fractional units are proportionately entitled to these rights. All units are fully paid and non-assessable when issued.

The units of the Funds are issued and redeemed at the closing net asset value per unit on the date of trade, other than Fidelity Far East Fund and Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund which use the closing net asset value per unit on the valuation day following the date of trade. Units are redeemable at the option of the unitholder.

4. Management Fees

Fidelity Investments Canada Limited ("Fidelity") serves as manager and distributor of the Fidelity Funds. As a result of providing investment advisory and management services, Fidelity receives a monthly management fee, based on the average net asset value of the Fund, calculated daily and payable monthly, at the following annualized rates:

|   |        |
|---|--------|
| Fidelity Asset Manager Fund .....           | 2.25%  |
| Fidelity Emerging Markets Bond Fund .....   | 1.75%  |
| Fidelity European Growth Fund .....         | 2.25%* |
| Fidelity Far East Fund .....                | 2.25%* |
| Fidelity International Portfolio Fund ..... | 2.25%* |
| Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund .....         | 2.25%  |
| Fidelity Latin American Growth Fund .....   | 2.25%  |

* one and three-quarters percent for accounts in existence prior to January 1, 1994

5. Management Expense Ratio

The ratio of management fees and other expenses (excluding interest charges, goods and services tax and foreign withholding taxes) expressed as a percentage of the average daily net assets of the respective Fund is referred to as the "Management Expense Ratio" and is disclosed below.

The Funds are responsible for the payment of all direct expenses related to its operation, such as audit fees, legal fees and administration fees. Fidelity also provides unitholder services such as transfer agent and administration services to the Funds. The goods and services taxes are recorded as part of the expenses to which they apply. For Fidelity Asset Manager Fund, the actual expenses incurred during the period ended June 30, 1994 did not exceed those stated above; however in 1993, Fidelity absorbed $156,388 of expenses in order to maintain the stated ratio. For Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund, the Manager waived its right to $200,470 in management fees.

The management fee rates set out in Note 4 above for Fidelity European Growth Fund, Fidelity Far East Fund and Fidelity International Portfolio Fund reflect a 0.50% increase in the annual management fee rate which was effective January 1, 1994. If this basis of calculating the management fee had been in place throughout fiscal 1994 for each of these Funds, the estimated management fee expense ratio would have been as follows:

|---------------------------------------|-------|-------|
| Fidelity European Growth Fund         | ..... | 2.78% |
| Fidelity Far East Fund                | ..... | 2.76% |
| Fidelity International Portfolio Fund | ..... | 2.75% |

6. Taxation Of Funds

The Funds qualify as mutual fund trusts under the provisions of the Income Tax Act (Canada) and, accordingly, are not subject to tax on their net income, including net realized capital gains for the calendar year, which is paid or payable to their unitholders as at the end of the calendar year. However, such part of a Fund's net income and net realized capital gains that is not so paid or payable will be taxable to the Funds. Income tax on net realized capital gains not paid or payable will be generally recoverable by virtue of refunding provisions contained in the Income Tax Act (Canada) and provincial income tax legislation, as redemptions occur. It is the intention of the Funds to pay all net taxable income and sufficient net realized capital gains so that the Funds will not be subject to income taxes.

7. Brokerage Commissions

Commissions paid for portfolio transactions for the period are as follows:

|                                       | Periods ended June 30 |           |

10. Redemption of Units

Units of the Funds may be redeemed on any valuation date at the net asset value per unit of the respective Fund. Redemption instructions must be in writing and signed with the signature guaranteed by a Canadian chartered bank or a member of a public stock exchange in Canada. If the unitholder is a corporation, partnership, agent, fiduciary or surviving joint owner, additional documentation of a customary nature may be required. All redemption proceeds will be paid within five days of receipt by Fidelity of all required documents. A redemption request received by the Manager prior to 4:00 p.m. Toronto time on a valuation date will receive the net asset value per unit calculated on that valuation date, other than Fidelity Far East Fund and Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund which use the net asset value per unit on the next valuation date. A redemption request received after 4:00 p.m. Toronto time on a valuation date or on a day other than a valuation date will receive the net asset value per unit calculated on the next following valuation date, other than Fidelity Far East Fund and Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund which use the net asset value per unit on the second valuation date following the day of actual receipt.

Any redemption request which is not forwarded directly to the Manager by the unitholder but instead is sent to a dealer or broker is to be forwarded by the dealer or broker receiving the same to the Manager on the same day on which the completed redemption request is received or, if received by the dealer or broker after normal business hours or on any day which is not a business day, on the next business day.

11. Statement of Portfolio Transactions

In accordance with Regulations under the Securities Act (Ontario), a statement of portfolio transactions (unaudited) for the year ended June 30, 1994 will be provided without charge, on request to the Fund, at Suite 900, 222 Bay Street, Ernst & Young Tower, Toronto, Ontario M5K 1P1.

Auditors' Report

To the Unitholders of:

Fidelity Asset Manager Fund,
Fidelity Emerging Markets Bond Fund,
Fidelity European Growth Fund,
Fidelity Far East Fund,
Fidelity International Portfolio Fund,
Fidelity Japanese Growth Fund,
and Fidelity Latin American Growth Fund, collectively referred to as "Fidelity Funds"

We have audited the statements of investment portfolio of each of the Fidelity Funds as at June 30, 1994, the statements of net assets, income(loss), surplus(deficit), changes in net assets and changes in investments as at and for the periods indicated in note 1. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Funds' Manager. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by the Fund Manager, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the investment portfolios of each of the Fidelity Funds as at June 30, 1994, their financial positions and the results of their operations and the changes in their net assets as at and for the periods indicated in note 1, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Market keeping you up when it's not? Take a look at your risk profile

More than a decade ago, in what now seems a distant era, an aggressive U.S. company flogged a home exercise system using the catchy slogan, "No pain, no gain." During the aggressive 1980s, the slogan, if not the equipment, became instantly popular for its message: The end justifies the means.

In the great bull market of the 1980s, some investment professionals adopted the hot-shot marketing slogan as their own credo, expanding on the sentiment: It was reasonable, even necessary, to withstand some trauma or risk if there was a suitable return.

Those investors who lived by this mantra were criticized for being aggressive and perhaps even reckless in their outlook. Instead, these investors were merely recognizing what had sometimes, if not often, been overlooked: That all investments carry some degree of risk. In large measure, successful investing is a management of risks in relation to returns. Put another way, how much pain is enough for the gain earned?

Investment professionals recognize most investors are risk averse and tend to search for the least risk for the highest return. It's important, then, to be able to quantify risk in relation to potential returns. After all, while money market funds have a low risk, their returns are relatively low. As you move to riskier investments, you naturally expect higher returns.

Recognizing and measuring risk goes hand in hand with determining your investment goals. If risk is a measure of the downside probability of an investment, some important questions must be answered by every investor: What is the risk to my principal?

What is my expected rate of return? How will I react to an unexpected decline in my investment? What is my time horizon for this investment? A retirement savings plan started by a 28-year-old carries a different set of risk and investment expectations than a RSP started by a 55-year-old.

The answers to these questions make up your investment personality and reflect your attitudes toward risk. You should also realize that the market conditions in which you invest are going to change. Your goal should be to develop a portfolio that will perform well in the different types of market conditions you expect in your investment time horizon.

There are different types of risk which should be considered when putting together an investment portfolio. When investing in equities or bonds issued by companies, credit risk becomes important. Low credit risk might ensure investors that dividends will be consistently paid and that bond interest payments will be met. Higher credit risk might alert investors to do more research into the investments being considered. For mutual fund investors, an investment manager's style is important to examine. What criteria does the manager use to pick investments and is the fund limited to investing in highly rated companies?

If your goal as an investor is to increase the value of your principal and increase your purchasing power, it is imperative that your investment portfolio returns better than the rate of inflation. Any return lower will mean a net loss for your investments. While inflation has been relatively low, even negative, over the past couple years, history has shown that specific investments can underperform inflation in short periods of time.

Risk posed by inflation and interest rates is important to consider when making investment decisions since they affect financial decisions of companies and governments. When interest rates are falling, governments and corporations tend to borrow more or restructure their debt at a lower cost. The savings companies gain from lower borrowing costs allow them to upgrade their factories, increase production, hire more staff, perhaps lower prices, and increase profit.

The financial markets move in cycles. In declining cycles, most investments cannot escape losing some value. It's important to be aware of this market risk since a volatile market could cut 10% to 20% off the value of some investments relatively quickly.

Particularly for Canadian investors, exchange rate risk or foreign exchange exposure is an important consideration when investing. How are the companies or the mutual funds in which you invest exposed to movements in the Canadian dollar or, in the case of international funds, changes in the U.S. dollar, Japanese yen or German mark?

If anything is certain here, it's that understanding risks takes some research. Investors might blame poor returns and losses in their portfolio on high risk investments when the cause is really a lack of research or information available before they invested their money.

Ask your financial advisor for information about your investments and how they suit your risk profile and investment goals. You may want to ask how your portfolio suits current or forecasted market conditions. In addition, as you get older or as your priorities change you may want to adjust your portfolio's focus towards a higher or lower degree of risk or a different time horizon.

Glossary

Average and Indices — Statistical tools that measure the state of the stock market or the economy, based on the performance of stocks or other meaningful components, e.g., the Dow Jones Industrial Average, the TSE 35 Composite Index, the Montreal Exchange Portfolio Index and the Consumer Price Index, etc.

Bank Rate — The minimum rate at which the Bank of Canada makes short-term advances to the chartered banks and other members of the Canadian Payments Association. Historically, the Bank Rate has been administered directly by the Bank of Canada and was changed from time to time as a symbolic indicator of the Bank's attitude toward money policy. However, since 1980, the Bank Rate has been set at 1/4 of 1% (25 basis points) above the weekly average tender rate of 91-day Government of Canada treasury bills.

Basis Point — A phrase used to describe differences in interest rates and bond yields, with one basis point representing one-hundredth of a percentage point. Thus, if Bond X yields 11.50% and Bond Y 11.75%, the difference is 25 basis points.

Bear — One who expects that the market generally or the market price of a particular security will decline.

Bear Market — A declining market.

Blue Chip — An active, leading, nationally known common stock with a record of continuous dividend payments and other strong investment qualities.

Bond — A certificate evidencing a debt on which the issuer promises to pay the holder a specified amount of interest for a specified length of time, and to repay the loan on its maturity.

Bull — One who expects that the market generally or the market price of a particular security will rise.

Bull Market — A rising market.

Capital — Has two distinct but related meanings. To an economist, it means machinery, factories and inventory required to produce other products. To an investor, it may mean the total of the financial assets he has invested in securities, his home and other fixed assets, plus cash.

Common Stock — Securities representing ownership in a company and carrying voting privileges.

Diversification — Spreading investment risk by buying different securities in different companies in different kinds of businesses and /or locations.

Dividend — An amount distributed out of a company's profits to its shareholders in proportion to the numbers of shares they hold. In a mutual fund, a dividend is a distribution to shareholders of investment income earned by the fund.

Earnings Per Share — The portion of net income for a period attributable to a single common share of a company.

Equities (Stocks) — Ownership interest of common and preferred shares in a particular company.

Foreign Property Limit — The maximum amount of foreign securities allowable in a mutual fund that is fully RRSP eligible. This limit is 20% for 1994 and for subsequent years.

Fiscal Policy — The policy pursued by the federal government to direct the economy through taxation and the level and allocation of government spending.

Futures — Commodity futures contracts are legally binding commitments to deliver or take delivery of a specified commodity at a future specified time at an agreed upon price.

Fixed Income — Securities that generate a predictable stream of interest or dividend income, such as bonds, debentures, and preferred shares.

Growth Stock — Common stock of a company with excellent prospects for above-average growth; a company which over a period of time seems destined for above-average expansion.

Hedge — A protective maneuver; a transaction intended to reduce the risk of loss from price fluctuations.

Income Stock — A stock that provides a generous dividend yield that is relatively well assured.

Liquid — Easily converted to cash without loss of value.

Load — The portion of the offering price of shares of mutual funds which covers sales commissions and all other costs of distribution.

Long-Term Bond — A bond or debenture maturing in more than 10 years.

Maturity — The date on which a loan or a bond or debenture comes due and is paid off.

Medium-Term Bond — A bond or debenture maturing in over three but less than ten years.

Money Market Instrument — Form of debt (bonds) that mature in less than one year and are easily converted to cash, such as treasury bills, bankers' acceptances and commercial paper. Treasury bills make up the bulk of trading in the markets.

Mutual Fund — A company or trust whose business it is to invest in the securities of other companies, banks, governments, or municipalities. Mutual funds have a stated investments objective and buy securities to help meet this goal.

Net Asset Value — The price or market value of an individual share of a mutual fund.

Option — A right to buy or sell specific securities or properties at a specified price within a specified price within a specified time.

Portfolio — A collection of investment holdings either in a fund or an individual's personal account.

Price Earnings Ratio — A common stock's current market price divided by its annual per share earnings.

Prime Rate — The interest rate chartered banks charge to their most credit-worthy borrowers.

Prospectus — A thorough written description of a mutual fund, as well as the legal selling document.

RESP — Registered Education Savings Plan. An investment opportunity to accumulate savings for a child's education. Although contributions are not tax deductible, there is a tax deferral opportunity as the contributions accumulate tax-free within the plan.

RRIF — Registered Retirement Income Fund, one of the tax deferral vehicles available to RRSP holders who de-register their plans.

RRSP — Registered Retirement Savings Plan, one of the most popular vehicles available to individuals to defer tax and save for retirement years. Not only are annual contributions tax deductible up to the allowance limits, they also earn tax deferred dollars while in the plan.

Securities — Catch-all term for stocks, bonds, and money market instruments.

Treasury Bills — Short-term government debt issued in denominations ranging from $1,000 to $1,000,000. T-bills do not pay interest, but are sold at a discount and mature at par (100% of face value).

Warrant — A certificate giving the holder the right to purchase securities at a stipulated price within a specified time limit.

Yield — The effective interest rate dividend on an investment. In a fund whose share price fluctuates, yield represents the income component of return, whereas the price change represents the capital gain or loss component.
