My dear Penfield:

A I am very sorry my letter seemed vague. I did not mean it so. Everything is perfectly clear in my mind. Do come up before you leave for Europe, as I have two private consultations for you, and we have a lot of details to settle. And I have $5000 in cash to be spent in whatever way you see fit. Two prominent men have said openly that there is no neurology, either medical or surgical, worth ^{the name} ~~the money~~ in this town, and they are glad somebody is coming. I am encouraging such talk all I can. I really think that within a year things will be going with a rush. A

You can start the lab and operating equipment as much as you like.

Delighted to hear that Cone has got his scholarship.

Yours always,

Edward Archibald
