

5th October 1933.

Dr. Max Brödel,
The Johns Hopkins University,
School of Medicine,
Baltimore, Md.

Dear Dr. Brödel,

Many thanks for your sketches; I liked them very much. I do not believe it is going to be possible to incorporate them in the exterior as it is so difficult to work in small detail in this rather coarse Montreal limestone of which the building is being made.

I should like very much, however, to have you elaborate the design when you have time so that we can use it for a bookplate.

Yours sincerely,

WGP/HL.