Dr. Alan Gregg,
The Rockefeller Institute,
61 Broadway,
New York City.

Dear Gregg,

On going over my pile of correspondence I have just learned that Dr. Weisenburg wrote to you to ask for help in publishing selected contributions of various men on the education of neurologist. You will probably recognize in them the outcome of the correspondence which I once showed you between Walshe and myself, and I may say that Walshe's contribution is most amusing and interesting. I wonder what you thought of the undertaking.

I was sorry not to see you longer in New York,

With best regards,

Ever yours,

WGP/HL. P.S.

We have been having a lot of trouble to get the building in under our original estimate even though we use the whole of the contingency fund at the start. One might best estimate several institutes & build them as a sort of preparation for building a proper one!

Best Regards,
W.P.
