

Princeton Medicine

The artisan's pleasure in in using fine tools.

11th October 1934.

Dr. Alan Gregg,
The Rockefeller Foundation,
49 West 49th Street,
New York City.

Dear Gregg,

I am sending with this a copy of a little thing I wrote for the Princeton Alumni Weekly, thinking you might be interested. Do let me have it back when you are through with it.

Everything is running along very well indeed here. The Institute is really a delight to work in. Some of the staff have told me how much easier it is to get through their work over here than it was under the old circumstances. There is a certain pleasure which comes to an artisan in using fine tools. We are experiencing that pleasure now.

With best regards, ever yours

WGP/HL.
1 encl.