Dear Mr. Penfield:

Your letter addressed to Mr. Myers arrived during his absence from the office on vacation. As I felt confident that it referred to the application I opened it and was very much surprised to notice that the application was not sent to you with my letter. The stenographer who wrote the letter evidently overlooked inclosing the application. I am very sorry for the delay which results from such oversight. I am now sending the application to you and believe that you will still have time to execute it and return the same before you sail.

Very truly yours,

John R. Yates,
